

New Jersey-Themed Amusement Park to Open in Union, Maine

By Zachariah Clifton, Wednesday, April 1, 2020

UNION, MAINE — The Pour Farm LLC and Asbury Engineering today announced a joint venture to develop an amusement park on 25 acres in Union, ME. The park, Jankyland, will be designed to feel like New Jersey. The plan calls for 10 rides and attractions, 4 fast food restaurants, a 200 seat amphitheater, a motorcycle campground, and 6 acres of parking. The site is located between The Pour Farm brewery and Crawford Pond in Union. Construction is expected to begin in late 2020.

Rides under development include: Splash-N-Stink, a septic water wave pool; Gastro-Whirl, a frantic and violent teacup ride; The Slippery Zipper, an economy zip line that deposits riders into Crawford Pond; Eeyore's Adventure, an interminable donkey ride; Swim with Crappies, a dolphin inspired experience with local fish; and Ouch!, an exotic animal petting zoo.

As part of the deal, the brewery will be demolished to make way for the new parking lot, and the last 10 miles of the donkey ride.

Bill Stinson, owner of The Pour Farm, said that following the issuance of local permits, the forest will be clear cut, the hillside will be dynamited, and the whole 25 acres will be paved. In addition, Crawford Stream will be replaced by an underground aqueduct. “The brewery was a good way to get started in Union, but Jankyland will help us deliver the rapid growth our shareholders demand. We’re excited to bring an authentic New Jersey experience to midcoast Maine.”

The Pour Farm LLC (TPFX) of Union, ME is known for making small batch beers with local ingredients. Production of The Pour Farm beer will be moved to Peesquonk, NJ.

Asbury Engineering (JOVI) of Ocean Grove, NJ is the leading distributor of casino security cameras and ankle bracelets in northern New Jersey. It is not currently licensed to design or build safety-critical amusement park rides, but its CEO is taking an online course.
